

BEE MINE?

One third of the foods you eat directly or indirectly depends on pollination by honey bees. Many crops, including nuts, vegetables, alfalfa (used for hay), apples, cantaloupe, cranberries, pumpkins and sunflowers, are 90 percent dependent on honey bee pollination.

